Charles Adams, Ron Grober Highlight Soph Hop Tonight

by MAUREEN McKEOWN

If spending a soothing evening with assorted spooks appeals to your sense of the aesthetic, then you'll find a ready welcome tonight between nine and twelve at Monster Alley in Grey Towers.

Gail Eisert, Chairman of Soph Hop, shows poster to freshman Judy Duffy,

Dr. Kistler Will Represent Beaver At Advertising Campaign Luncheon

Dr. Raymon Kistler is one of twenty presidents representing colleges and universities of the Philadelphia area who are attending the Advertising Council's national campaign luncheon.

Trustees of the various institutions and community leaders representing business, industry, radio, television, and newspaper, will be also at the Barclay on Thursday, October 24, at 12:30 p.m. to help launch the campaign.

Dr. Frank W. Abrams, former chairman of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey and chairman of the Executive Committee of the Council on Financial Aid to Education, will be the speaker. Mr. Alfred H. Williams, president of the Federal Reserve Bank of Philadelphia, will be the toastmaster.

In addition to Beaver the following colleges and universities will be represented: Bryn Mawr College, Chestnut Hill College, Drexel Institute of Technology, Eastern Baptist College, Hahnemann Medical College and Hospital, Haverford College, Immaculate College, and Jefferson Medical College of Philadelphia.

Also attending will be representatives of La Salle College, Pennsylvania Military College, Philadelphia Textile Institute, Rosemont College, St. Joseph's College, Temple University, Swarthmore College, University of Pennsylvania, Ursinus College, Villanova, and Woman's Medical College.

John Emhardt Is Elected To Board Of Trustees

Mr. John F. Emhardt, of 15 Rech Avenue, Oreland, president and general manager of the Columbia Steel Equipment company, has been elected a member of the Board of Trustees of Beaver College. Dr. Morgan H. Thomas, president of the Board, has announced. He was elected for a three year term.

A well-known community leader, Mr. Emhardt is district chairman of the Boy Scouts of America, a member of the Board of Zoning and Adjustments for Upper Dublin Township, a member of the Industrial Board, Fort Washington, and a member of the Board of Trustees of Carmel Presbyterian church.

He is also a member of the Union League and Manufacturers Country Club.

Ina Dolfman Appointed To Clearing House

Ina Dolfman '58 has been appointed to the Citizenship Clearing House, an organization sponsoring political parties on the college campus.

This year it initiated internship. Beaver recommended Ina to the trustees of the Citizenship Clearing House. She was selected by the trustees to work with the Republican candidate at Republican headquarters from August 16 to November 5.

At headquarters Ina does research and is invited to the confidential meetings. When the campaign starts, she will go out with the candidates.

Inspired by Charles Adams, the sophomore class will be garbed in black to receive guests to the Sixty Shuffle. In order to carry out the mood of the evening, the decorations will also be black — with touches of white for color.

Ron Grober's band will provide a musical accompaniment for the gay and ghoulish guests, and during intermissions entertainment will climb to the ethereal when Pat Ramos and Donna Graham combine their musical talents.

Gail Eisert, chairman of the dance and Sharon Hanson, class president, have completed arrangements, and blind dates from Franklin and Marshall will be waiting to escort those who have no steady ghoul.

The gargoyles on the castle will be smiling and the gremlins within will be grinning. Will you be there?

Beaver Chapter Of AAUP To Meet; Dr. Swaim is Acting President

Beaver College's newly formulated chapter of the American Association of University Professors will hold its first meeting of the year on October 17 in the conference room at 8:00 p.m., with Dr. Robert Swaim, professor of Bible and religious education and college pastor, acting as president pro tem.

At this time permanent officers will be elected, and the constitution and program for the coming year will be approved.

Guest speaker will be Professor Arthur Scouten of the English de-

Dr. I. M. Levitt, Astronomer, To Address Assembly Oct. 22

Dr. I. M. Levitt, nationally-known scientist and director of Philadelphia's famed Fels Planetarium, who will speak here on October 22 at 1:35 p.m. in Murphy Chapel, is an inventor as well as one of the country's highly respected astronomers.

I. M. Levitt

Among his more recent inventions is the Hamilton Space Clock, which he developed especially to aid in charting journeys into space. The world's first interplanetary timepiece, it is designed to show the comparative passage of time—by the day, hour, month and year —on earth and on planets in outer space.

Dr. Levitt designed this first interplanetary clock for Mars since it is "the planet most likely to be the first visited by man, once he has escaped the gravitational bondage of earth." Astronomical calculations relating time on other planets could be made as well, providing for the different time it takes each planet to rotate.

Authority on Space Travel

An authority on space travel, Dr. Levitt had urged that the U. S. take the lead in launching a man-made device into space before Russia did so "with its possible tremendous psychological repercussion throughout the entire world." He proposes a man-made moon that would circle the earth at a height of 200 miles, traveling continuously around the earth.

Besides representing perpetual space travel by a humanly-conceived device, such a satellite would be a tremendous step in the conquest of outer space and would provide many answers to questions scientists bound to the earth might take many years to solve.

When he speaks here, Dr. Levitt will explore the many hazards that face man in his efforts to under take interplanetary travel, as well as the tremendous advances already made by forward-looking scientists toward that goal. His subject will be "Journey Into Space."

New Students To Meet Local Clergymen

Seventeen clergymen from the area have been invited by the Young Women's Christian association to attend the annual Student-Minister Dinner for freshmen and transfer students on Thursday evening, October 17.

After dinner, instead of attending regular chapel service, each new student will have the opportunity to meet with the clergyman of her choice and to discuss the religious aspects of college life. These conferences will take place in the classrooms above Taylor chapel.

Roberta Smith, chairman, Barbara Burke, and Peggy McCloud are in charge of planning this activity.

Glee Club To Sing In Atlantic City For New Jersey Synod, October 22

Eighty members of Beaver's Glee Club will perform for the New Jersey Synod on October 22 at the First Presbyterian church in Atlantic City.

A twenty minute section of the program will be broadcast. Dr. W. Lawrence Curry, conductor, will lead the girls in a program of sacred selections including "Alleluia" by Bach, "O Bone Jesu" by Palestrina, and "As Torrents in Summer" by Elgar.

The two busloads of girls will leave Beaver on October 22 at 4 p.m. for Atlantic City. This is a first for the Beaver Glee Club. The Westminster Choir has performed for the Synod previously.

On November 17 the club will sing at the Grace Presbyterian church, Jenkintown, and at the Wayne Presbyterian Church in Wayne.

On December 1 the Glee Club will join with the choirs of the First Methodist church of Germantown commemorating the anniversary of John Wesley.

Poetry Discussions Presented On TV

"The Enjoyment of Poetry," a series of interpretations of poetry by Frances Eldredge, associate professor of English, Chatham College, will be presented on station WQED Channel 13, Tuesdays, 9:30 to 10 p.m. The program is designed for those who enjoy poetry and those who feel they might enjoy it if they "just knew more."

Poems from the past and immediate present will be read, interpreted, and discussed.

Images of fantasy and imagination, working in complex rhythms to stir our imagination, will be the subject of the talk entitled "The Symbolic Nature of Lyric," October 22.

Professor Eldredge will discuss how the external form of a poem may be expressive of its inner meaning on October 29 in the presentation entitled "Structure in Poetry — the Sonnet."

"Intoxication with Rhyme and Image," revolving around the poems of Gerard Manly Hopkins and Dylan Thomas, on November 5 will conclude this series.

We Invite You

Although members of the Beaver News editorial staff are as a rule required to complete one semester of journalism, we invite students to contribute news stories, features, and pictures which they think would be of interest on the campus. They may be placed in the post office box of either the editor-in-chief or the news editor of the "News."

FLASH!

Operation noiseless library radiators will go into effect at the first sign of frost. It is hoped that the installation of new valves will eliminate the clanging din of past years.

Student Bank Announces New Hours

In order to make it easier for the students of the Grey Towers campus, the Business Office has announced a change effective from Wednesday, October 2, concerning the hours of the student bank. The new hours for weekdays are 10:20 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. and 1:35 p.m. to 3:45 p.m.; and for Saturdays, 9:30 a.m. to 11:30 a.m.

Faculty Talent To Aid Campus Chest

The faculty-administration show for the benefit of Campus Chest will be presented on November 5 during the assembly period. Tickets are 50 cents and will be sold at the door as well as in Beaver lobby and Towers lobby before lunch several days before the show. Attendance will not be taken at this assembly.

Here We Go Again

Every September, inevitably, we are confronted with a considerable number of nice, intelligent, but impressionable young girls. These girls, young (being just out of high school) and impressionable (being away from home for perhaps the first time) are also full of energy, ideas and ability.

We upperclassmen have had the curing, hardening, broadening experience of at least one year of living and working here. Who can deny, that though a great teacher, this experience takes a lot of time. Meanwhile, we are responsible for this group of impressionable young girls, — like it or not.

Can we not use the time we are spending now to force ourselves to "have fun" at their expense to give them some of the benefits of our experience? Can we not teach them some of the things that, as they mature, will (or will not) become important to them, for example, table etiquette, tact, and respect for their seniors, their professors, their classmates, and most of all, themselves?

For the Student Government Association, in apparent consistency with their endeavor "to maintain a high standard of honor," to condone the low standard of juvenile nonsense as witness this year's Tribunal, is a threat to the dignity of the Government itself.

Nancy Westwick

Waste Not, Want Not

It is only typical of human nature that we should want improvements in our environment and convenience in our daily living.

The college tries to meet the wants and needs of the students by supplying the necessary equipment to make their life more enjoyable.

Every year, however, hundreds of dollars which might have been spent on further conveniences go to repair or replace items ruined or lost by student carelessness.

Because of the irresponsibility and negligence of some, many of the former rooms of the upperclassmen had to be repapered prematurely for the incoming freshmen.

Cigarette burns damaged the upholstery and scarred the bridge tables in the smokers.

Already this semester the dining room has reported the disappearance of silverware, namely, 85 forks, 96 knives, and 52 spoons.

Damages to the plaster caused by improvised shower systems resulted in costly repairs.

NEB

Veni, Vidi . . . A Freshman Views Beaver

by LOUISE ATCHESON

While wandering through the halls of Beaver C., one can hear many new tinkling voices, each projecting a different message. "No, no, it doesn't cover the spot on the wall," shouts the freshman-just-turned interior decorator.

The world of draperies and bedspreads is a fascinating one. We all know that orange bedspreads don't go with pink walls. (Is my roommate color blind?)

Then, "I refused to take one step out of the ladies' room," says another voice, "My date was horrible, obnoxious, and besides that he was ugly!" Chalk one freshman mixer.

"Who has anything to eat?" is often heard in the dorms after classes, dates, and meals. Hunger seems to be synonymous with freshmen. After the Princeton mixer your reporter noticed one (snowed) freshman eating cheeze whiz on raisins. And you'll never know how good jelly can taste eaten with the fingers.

Cokes seem to be appetizer, main course, and even dessert for some. Of course, there's always the ice cream machine to break up the monotony.

"I'm just going to the Chat for a minute." Famous last words. As the hours pass, our object is absorbed in conversation or the boy from Penn who has come to survey this year's crop. "11:30! Too late to study my Zoo. I'll get up early tomorrow and look it over."

Pea green, olive green, kelly green, puny green, grass green, and gangrene green, still dancing before our bewildered eyes. If we learned anything it was how nauseating all these shades look after a couple of weeks.

"I simply have to learn these songs" is the anguished cry as the greenie leaps into bed, eyes bleary from staring at mimeographed papers. Off she goes to slumberland with the immortal words, "We are the ones who suffer, it seems . . ." etched on her brain.

The Theater

"Fair Game," a new comedy by Sam Locke, is now appearing at the Forrest Theater. The stars of this Broadway-bound production are Sam Levene, Robert Webber, and Ellen McRae.

At the Erlanger Theater, the spotlight focuses on the comic antics of Nancy Walker and Benay Venuta in "Copper And Brass," a rousing new musical comedy which is making its pre-Broadway bow here.

Once more the writing talents of Carson McCullers will display themselves here in Philadelphia when her new play "The Square Root Of Wonderful" opens at the Walnut Theater on October 14. The star of this drama is Anne Baxter. Miss McCullers will be remembered, I am sure, for her delightful play, "A Member Of The Wedding," which was seen here a few years ago.

The Dance

The Royal Ballet, formerly known as the Sadler's Wells Ballet, opens at the Academy of Music on October 14 with world renowned dancers Margot Fonteyn and Michael Somes as its stars.

A Letter

Dear Editor,

The conduct of the student body at meals is deplorable. Noise, poor manners, and impatience are the order of the day.

While waiting to enter the dining room the noise begins. I realize when four hundred individuals converge simultaneously at one spot that a degree of turmoil will exist. It should become the responsibility of the individual to restrain herself from loud cacophony.

After entering the dining room the din subsides momentarily and then resumes with added vigor. Again I would suggest that a little restraint on the part of the individual could correct this.

As we are considered to be adult or near-adult, should we not be capable of the barest minimum of good manners? I am referring to our conduct toward the waitresses. When they ask for the coffee count and for seconds, we could be polite enough to acknowledge their questions and answer them promptly and correctly.

Patience is a virtue we often disregard at meals. When we are displeased with the menu or we are unable to have seconds or we are served last, could we remember that it is not the fault of the waitress. A little thought would make the meal more pleasant for us and for the waitresses.

Peter Ustinov Makes U. S. Debut In "Romanoff And Juliet"

by CAROLE FREEDMAN

"Romanoff and Juliet," the much heralded London success, gave versatile innovator Peter Ustinov an opportunity to display both his acting and writing talents to the Philadelphia public when the play made its debut here only two weeks ago. Unfortunately, one cannot help feeling that if Mr. Ustinov had employed his directing talents also, the play certainly would have fared much better.

In its brightest moments, this play is an excellent example of true comedy touched off by satire, wit, imagination, and poetry.

As president of a small, unnamed country in Europe, Mr. Ustinov portrays a Friar Lawrence type of character in the play's rather free adaptation of the Romeo and Juliet theme. Thus when the Russian ambassador's son falls in love with the American ambassador's daughter, Mr. Ustinov devises a clever scheme to unite the young lovers and provide for the happy ending befitting a comedy.

Using this rather frail plot, Mr. Ustinov demonstrates his deft ability as author as he amusingly satirizes diplomatic protocol, the Russian spy system, and the American tradition of cigar-handling diplomacy.

In the style of true comedy, this play in its most pointed witticisms has an underlying note of seriousness which is unmistakable. In one scene Ustinov speaks to the Russian ambassador, who claims he is unable to sleep, and asks him if he is suffering from insomnia. His answer is, "No, I suffer from policy."

There is poetry in Mr. Ustinov's pen, and it is a pity that there is

The Cinema

Michael Todd's award winning film, "Around The World In 80 Days," is still the stellar attraction at the Midtown Theater on Chestnut Street in Philadelphia.

Ernest Hemingway's "The Sun Also Rises" is now playing at the Fox Theater at 16th and Market Streets in Philadelphia. The cast includes Tyrone Power, Ava Gardner, and Mel Ferrer.

"Search For Paradise," the new Lowell Thomas cinerama production, is now at the Boyd Theater on 19th at Chestnut Street in Philadelphia. There is a special showing for students on Saturday morning at 10:30. The price of admission is 94 cents.

Campus Welcomes New Foreign Students Representing Four Countries

Beaver's culture has been expanded this year by the admission of seven students representing four foreign countries. They are the Philippine Islands, China, Venezuela, and Panama.

Patricia Canlas of the Philippine Islands was born in Manila City and attended Consolation College for eight years before beginning her high school studies at Philippine Women's University. She is majoring in business administration.

Also of the Philippines is Lily Ang, a transfer from Pine Manor Junior college in Wellesley, Massachusetts.

Lynne Lindo, also a freshman, is a major in medical technology. She was born in Panama City and hopes to return to her home to practice in Gorgas hospital in the Canal Zone. She has a brother studying at the University of Pennsylvania.

Although Terry Lee Louis was born in Brownsville, Pennsylvania, she moved with her family to Cristobal, Canal Zone, Panama, at the age of one and a half years. There she attended Christobal high school. She is continuing her education as a Spanish-French major.

Anna Jen-hu Liu, born in Shanghai, China, moved to Osaka, Japan, after World War II, as her father was employed in the diplomatic service of the Republic of China. After seven years in Japan, her family moved to Formosa. Anna is majoring in business with a minor in music.

Mrs. Jeanette Ching, also a native of Shanghai, is a transfer from Hunter College in New York. After living six years in Hong Kong, her family came to the United States. She now lives in Glenside, Pa. Using her mathematics major, she plans to go into applied work with computers.

Faculty Fills Summer With Vacation And Study

Among the faculty members with interesting summers to report were Dr. Siu-Chi Huang, who took a course on the Univac offered to college faculty at the University of Pennsylvania, by Remington Rand. The principles of the computing system and its scientific implications were discussed in this course. Dr. Huang then did research at the University of California.

Dr. Cutright

Dr. Paul Cutright spent part of his summer following the route taken by Lewis and Clark up the Missouri River into Montana, returning via the Oregon Trail. This automobile trip took two weeks.

Mrs. Stine

Mrs. Shirley P. Stine, instructor in English, has completed her preliminary examinations in Old English, Middle English and Elizabethan literature for her doctorate at the University of Pennsylvania.

Miss Downs

Miss Juanita Downs, assistant professor of classical languages, is entertaining as a house guest Miss Okgill Kim, professor of Christian education and assistant admissions officer at Ewha Women's University in Seoul, Korea. Miss Kim is attending classes in counseling and theology at Temple University. She has translated Lehman's "Life and Times of Christ" into the Korean language.

Miss Elder

Miss Judith Elder, associate professor of theatre-English, spent her summer in Nova Scotia. She also found time to attend the American Educational Theatre association conference in Boston and the American Shakespeare festival in Stratford, Connecticut.

Dr. Swaim

Dr. Robert Swaim, professor of Bible and religious education, is teaching a course in the Life and Teachings of Jesus in the school of Bible and religion here on campus. He is also conducting a series of six lectures on the Gospel of St. Luke at the North and South Hampton churches in Churchville, Pennsylvania.

Heylmun Scores For U. S. Team In England

Barbara Heylmun, president of the Athletic Association, has been very active in her scoring for the United States Lacrosse team, now touring the British Isles.

Barbara scored four times in the game with Scotland at Edinburgh with an 8-2 victory in favor of the U. S. It was the United States' third straight victory.

The other two victories were against the Ireland and Northern Counties' teams.

When the United States played Ireland in Dublin on September 28, Barbara scored three goals; her teammates Ann Keody and Sue Gordy scored four and one, respectively, to give a final score of 8-3.

The Americans maintained their unbeaten record with a 9-3 win over the Northern Counties eleven on October 1 in Belfast. The Liverpool Daily Post stated that the game reflected "the superior combined tactics of the Americans, whose thrustful attacks combined grace and skill." Again Barbara was the second highest scorer with two tallies.

The highlight of the 26 match tour of England, Ireland, Wales, and Scotland will be the match between the U.S. and the All-English teams in London on October 26. Barbara will fly home on October 27.

Miss Abelson

Miss Eula M. Abelson, professor of education, has announced that students taking kindergarten-elementary education will be attending lectures on all aspects of education during Schoolmen's Week, beginning October tenth.

Miss Shields

Miss Helen Shields, assistant professor of education, has been elected financial secretary of the Philadelphia branch of the National Association for Childhood Education.

Miss Harris

Miss Nellis R. Harris, instructor in biology and physical sciences, is continuing her research on the nervous system's control of feeding. She is using toads in her experiments to discover if the body temperature, which rises after eating, can be the signal to the brain that the individual is satisfied with the nutrition which he has received.

Dr. Mackinnon

Dr. Emily Mackinnon, professor of health and physical education, joined the Wisconsin State College study tour to South America this summer. She especially enjoyed the relics of the Inca rule in ancient Peru.

Dr. Rowland

Dr. Albert L. Rowland, associate professor of education, attended the push-off dinner for the United Fund on October 1. He is a member of the Montgomery County Central Board of Health and Welfare, which is in charge of 150 Red Feather agencies.

Dr. Wegener

Dr. Adolph Wegener, instructor in German, is adding book reviewing and article writing in his field to his teaching activities.

Mrs. Cutright

Mrs. Gladys Cutright, professor of Spanish, spent her summer traveling in Spain.

Freshmen Participate In Hockey Camp

Beaver Defeats Gettysburg In Opening Hockey Game of Season

In the hockey season opener, Beaver squeezed by Gettysburg 3-2 last Saturday on the losers' field. The hosts scored the first goal, but co-captain and left inner Maxine Swift scored one to even the tally. Before the first half ended, freshman Mari Fay pushed the Scarlet and Gray ahead with a goal.

Gettysburg tied the score at two all early in the second half. It wasn't until three minutes before the final whistle that center forward Mari Fay scored the winning goal, a neat, long, and well aimed flick past the goalie.

Our team picked up unity in the second half, but their many attempts at the goal missed by a fraction.

Only two players, Betty Holton and Julie Craig, played the same positions they held last year. Sue Douglass, former center forward and now a fullback, played well.

Gettysburg turned out to be better than expected, especially since only two players returned from last year's squad.

Feeling confident that the little hitches can be ironed out, Miss Aierstock expects great things of Beaver's team when they face their Philadelphia area opponents.

Dean Reports No Asiatic Flu On Beaver Campus

No definite cases of "Asiatic Flu" have been reported on the Beaver campus, according to Miss Florence M. Brown, Dean of Students. However, there are a great number of colds and a few cases of "flu."

Miss Brown reports that there are fewer cases in the infirmary than earlier in the week.

Alumnae Return Tomorrow To Play Against Hockey Team

by SHIRLEY

Tomorrow the Alumnae will come home to play the hockey team at 1:30 p.m. Edna Scott '50, alumnae chairman of sports, reports that Shirley Radcliff '57, All-American Marlene Lochner Emerich, Mary Lauffer, Dorothy Germain Porter, Joan Ramsbottom, Dorothy Kenyon, and All-American Elenore Pepper will play.

Kay Kidd, former member of the senior class, will guard the alumnae's goal. Missing will be Rosie Deniken '57, who as an All-American will face the Welsh team on Saturday. Last year the varsity was on the short end of the 3-1 score.

Hockey Play Day

Six area high schools are invited to attend Hockey Play Day on October 19 at Beaver. A round robin tournament beginning at 9:30 a.m. will feature teams comprised of forwards from one school and backfields from others.

The purpose of the event is to have fun and to show Beaver to the visiting players. Betty Holton and Joan Borton are arranging the affair.

A.A. Pledge

Throughout the year the A.A. will be raising in various ways $1000, their pledge to the Board of Trustees toward the tennis courts. We must help to raise our small share since the board did consent to pay the major part.

"Similitude In Dissimilitude" Shown By English Faculty

by JULIA STURGEON, '57

"We want our students to be acquainted with and enjoy great literature," states Dr. Doris Fenton, head of Beaver's English department.

This desire is shared by all the members of this, the largest department in the college.

All students must take twelve semester hours — six in elementary composition and six in literature — to qualify for degrees.

Last year's seniors placed English at the head of their list of subjects in which they wished they could have taken more courses. This should be gratifying to the six members of the English staff. Dr. Fenton

Dr. Doris Fenton, who came to Beaver in 1930, has been the head of the department since 1937.

"The course has come a long way since then," Dr. Fenton proudly stated. "We had more students and only four professors."

Miss Sturgeon received a full, stimulating, and varied education in her native Philadelphia. She was tutored at home until she was thirteen by a German teacher.

"We spoke a great deal in German, and I learned my Latin grammar there," she explained.

Dr. Fenton obtained her bachelor of arts degree in Greek from Wellesley College. She concentrated her studies on Greek and English for the master of arts and doctor of philosophy degrees at the University of Pennsylvania.

With a chuckle Dr. Fenton told of her teaching experiences in the Philadelphia area before she came to Beaver.

"You probably won't believe this," she said, "but besides teaching Latin, Greek, and English, I once found myself teaching algebra."

Dr. Fenton lives in Germantown with her brother and her sister, a nationally known sculptor. One of her hobbies is gardening.

Sharing the same office with Dr. Fenton is Dr. Belle Matheson. Dr. Matheson received her bachelor of arts degree from Randolph-Macon and the master's and doctor's degrees from the University of Pennsylvania.

After majoring in French in college, she turned, as a graduate student, to English, specializing in the Elizabethan drama.

Before coming to Beaver Dr. Matheson taught at the same Georgia high school from which she graduated. Georgia accounts for the remnants of the rapid southern accent with which she spoke of her coming to Beaver — primarily to institute the Beaver News.

"In 1935 I was teaching part time at Temple and Beaver. It wasn't until 1937 that I devoted my full time to teaching here," Dr. Matheson continued. "I've always enjoyed the work I did on the newspaper." She was faculty adviser for the paper for eighteen years and is now one of the faculty advisers for Forum and chairman of the committee on honors.

Dr. Matheson comes from a family of educators, her father having been president of Georgia Tech. and Drexel. Her two brothers are teachers.

She enjoys traveling and has been to England several times. Most of her students agree that her first love is "the theatre."

"I used to play chess," she remarked humorously, "but was forced to give up the game because it became too mentally stimulating."

Mrs. Sturgeon

A third faculty member in point of tenure in the department is Mrs. Mary S. Sturgeon who came to Beaver as a faculty wife in 1930.

Mrs. Sturgeon was born in Waco, Texas. She received her bachelor of arts degree from Baylor University and her master of arts degree from the University of Chicago.

She came to Beaver with her husband, Dr. W. E. Sturgeon, who headed the chemistry department from 1930 to 1950.

"Strange as it may seem, I was his laboratory assistant from 1931 to 1933," she added. From 1933 until 1943, when she began teaching English, Mrs. Sturgeon devoted her time to raising a family of three girls, two of whom graduated from Beaver—Mary in 1954 and Julia in 1957. Jokingly she said, "Ann, my youngest daughter, is a sophomore at Bucknell. She says that two Sturgeon alumnae from Beaver are enough."

Miss Green

Miss Margaret Green also has served the college in more than one capacity. Coming to Beaver in 1942, she was secretary to the dean of the college before becoming a member of the English department.

Miss Green grew up in Philadelphia, majored in Latin at Randolph-Macon and received her master's degree from Columbia University after graduate studies in English at Cornell University.

Just before World War II she taught English in a Japanese mission school for American girls in Japan. Back in the United States she worked for a year in New York City as secretary to a missionary until she came here.

When asked about the exciting incidents in her life, she responded, "Well, you can say I fell off the gang plank into the Los Angeles harbor when I came back from Japan."

Besides loving music, Miss Green collects old maps, but, as she says, "That costs money, and, well . . ."

Dr. Hinton

Another who has spent most of her life in the Philadelphia area is Dr. Margaret Hinton, who has been in the department since 1946.

Dr. Hinton received her bachelor's degree from Mt. Holyoke, her master's from Radcliffe College, and her doctor's degree from the University of Pennsylvania. Before coming to Beaver, Dr. Hinton taught English at Wheaton College in Norton, Massachusetts.

Her love of English has not been confined exclusively to her own teaching experience, for Mrs. Hinton's husband teaches English at Drexel Institute, and her sister is married to a member of the Ursinus English department.

During her summer vacations Dr. Hinton has traveled. She especially enjoyed a tour through France, Belgium, Holland, England, and Ireland.

When she is not busy with the inevitable "blue books" and papers, Dr. Hinton finds time to care for her garden and her cat, Goblin.

Mrs. Stine

In 1956 Mrs. Shirley Stine became the sixth member of the English faculty. Mrs. Stine is a native of Toledo, Ohio. She graduated with a bachelor's degree from Wellesley College, has done graduate work at Western Reserve, and has a master of arts degree from the University of Pennsylvania in the field of philology.

Besides teaching and caring for her four year-old son, Christopher, she is presently working on her doctorate, specializing in Old and Middle English.

Mrs. Stine is the second member of the English department whose husband is in the same field. Dr. Harold Stine is a member of the English faculty at the University of Pennsylvania.

Asked what she does in her spare time, an amused Mrs. Stine replied, "Time, who has spare time?"

In spite of their many students and numerous papers and tests to mark, besides outside obligations, all six professors obviously enjoy working to further the aims of their department: to encourage students to cultivate self-expression, to learn to write more effectively, and above all to become acquainted with and enjoy great literature.

'57 Graduates Find Employment In Schools, Laboratories, And Offices

Seventy-two members of the class of 1957 had found employment as of last June according to Miss Amelia Peck of the college placement bureau.

Of the 117 graduates, 52 are teaching in public and private schools on the primary, secondary, and junior college level. Seven have gone on to graduate study.

Both Elaine Kratz and Helen Viniarski found positions with Philadelphia television stations.

Helen spent the summer at the University of London.

Another '57 graduate to study abroad is Marilyn Bergen, who is pursuing the study of French in Paris through Middlebury College.

Lois Brands, Irma Vit, Susan Pippin, Virginia Shinn, and Betty Lynn Tate are also continuing their schooling.

Among the seniors who have carried a business background into the business world are Diane Barry, who is employed by a firm of industrial consultants in New York; Corinne Brunner, by the Bell Telephone Company of New Jersey; Alice Blair, by the Atlantic Refining Company; and Mary Jo Murphy, by the National Education Association.

Susan Riddle is with a Lewistown bank, Susan Stackpole is with Gimbel Brothers at Cheltenham, and Nancy Williams is with Hess Brothers, Allentown. Lois Blume is employed in her father's law office.

Betty Colwell is now working as field director to the Camden County Council of Girl Scouts. Another biology major, Beatrice Durham, is a laboratory assistant at Bryn Mawr.

A Bible and Religion major, Mary Ann Stames, found a position with the First Presbyterian church of Red Bank, New Jersey.

Julia Sturgeon Kamp is now writing promotional material for a personnel bureau in Los Angeles, California.

8 Students Return From Beaver Tour

Eight Beaver students spent 98 days this summer touring England, Scotland, Norway, Denmark, Holland, Germany, Austria, Switzerland, Italy, Spain, and France under the auspices of the eighth annual Beaver College European Field Trip.

Miss Evelyn Giangulio, former assistant professor of business administration, conducted the tour of Europe.

Joanne DeGross, Meri Canali, Faith Downs, Clemmy Klein, Barbara Ficken, Suzanne Skidmore, Joanne Formica, and Barbara Jony were the tourists who left from Quebec on June 12 and returned to Montreal on September 17.

Review Deadline

All students wishing to submit prose, poetry, or art work for the first issue of the Beaver Review, the college literary magazine, must do so by October 25, according to Helen Herrick, editor. Material should be brought to Beaver 117 or placed in box 270 in Beaver Hall. Members of all classes are invited to submit any material they may have.

Beaver Graduate Appears On TV

Eleanor Perrine, 1957 graduate, appeared on the CBS TV panel program "What's My Line" this summer. Her line? Washing cows on Walker Gordon farm, N. J. (As of September she is teaching in Greenwich, Conn.)

Engagements

The engagement of Joan Ottaway to Ted Jurniak of Philadelphia was recently announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Kenyon C. Ottaway. Mr. Jurniak is a graduate of Drexel Institute of Technology.

Mr. and Mrs. William T. Mackie announced the engagement of their daughter, Patricia Belles, to Thomas F. Wilber.

Mrs. Nelson Honeymoons In Chicago Factory

A new bride and new faculty member, Mrs. Charlotte Nelson, spent her summer working with her husband in a Chicago factory. She was participating in the Ministers in Industry program sponsored by the Presbyterian Institute of Industrial Relations.

The program, which is both religious and sociological, is concerned with what the ministry of the church is to the industrial worker and to the industrialized and urbanized community. All persons in this program were seminary students assigned to regular factory jobs during the day and to discussion groups at night.

One of Chicago's major current problems is that of the adjustment of its "hillbilly" workers. Mrs. Nelson, a native of Tennessee, remarked that she was readily accepted by the workers as a "hillbilly."

Mrs. Nelson is enthusiastic about her experience on her unique honeymoon.

The engagement of Sara Van Fleet to Joseph Newman was announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Van Fleet. Mr. Newman is a senior at Dartmouth.

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Kobrovsky announced the engagement of their daughter, Barbara, to Fred Sussman, who is a senior at the Philadelphia Textile Institute.

Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy G. Kauffman announced the engagement of their daughter, Elaine, to Albert J. W. Wynasky. Mr. Wynasky, who is a graduate of Temple University School of Pharmacy, is now serving in the United States Navy.

Mrs. Violetta Kilpatrick has announced the engagement of her daughter, Louise, to Charles Martin of Abington.

Mr. and Mrs. Jules Nassberg have announced the engagement of their daughter, Sheila Lois, to Joel B. Portugal.

The engagement of Ellen LaRowe to Leon R. Mintz has been announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Francis LaRowe. Mr. Mintz is a graduate of Lehigh and is now with the Internal Revenue Service.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Dolfman have announced the engagement of their daughter, Ina, to Alan Paul Stess.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard G. May have announced the engagement of their daughter, Marcia, to Edward Hummers of Lehigh.

Mr. Funk & Mr. Wagnalls

"In re this matter of Good Taste," said Mr. Funk to his secretary, "take a definition."

"Taste: sensations . . . excited . . . by the . . . action of the gustatory nerves . . ."

"And add this," put in Mr. Wagnalls. "Taste: the faculty of . . . appreciating the beautiful . . ."

"That," said Mr. Funk, "wraps it up. Mr. Wagnalls, will you join me in a Coca-Cola?"

"So good in taste . . ."

"And . . . in such good taste!"
